

JUSTICE

What will you do today?

A Day of Activism and a Call to Action

Open to 8th-12th graders

Does justice seem like too much for one person to make a difference? Do you have too many questions and not enough answers? Here's your chance to ask the questions, learn what Judaism teaches us, and how to put that into action.

Program Schedule

8:45 – 9:15 Registration & Breakfast
9:15 – 9:45 Program with Naomi Ackerman and Beth Schafer
10:00 – 12:00 Breakout sessions – Find your Voice
12:00 – 12:30 Closing activity, What will you do now?
Shop to find your passion at the “Social Action Market Place”

Communitywide Teen Education Day will be in Maitland at the Jewish Academy of Orlando (851 N. Maitland Ave. Maitland, FL)
RSVP at www.JFGO.org

Sponsored by Marian & Ed Bromberg & the Wladis Family

ABOUT NAOMI

Actress. Activist. Educator.

Naomi is an experienced actress whose credits include theater, musicals, films and television. She was born in the US and immigrated to Israel in her childhood.

Naomi has worked for the past two decades using art to promote peace, change, and encourage self-empowerment.

Naomi has participated in various multinational theater productions with Arab and Jewish actors from the region. She was one of the founding members of "View Points," an Arab-Jewish theater group promoting tolerance and dialogue, sponsored and produced by the Peres Center for Peace.

Naomi wrote, directed, and performed the acclaimed one-woman show "Flowers Aren't Enough", which has been performed over 1200 times globally. In March 2004 Flowers was performed at the United Nations in honor of International Woman's Day, in front of the Commission for the Status of woman.

Naomi is founder and director of the Advot Project, a registered 501(c) 3 that uses theater to facilitate social change. Her educational curriculum, "Relationships 101," is currently being implemented in public and private high schools as well as in juvenile detention camps in Southern California.